FOREWORD

The 1961 Yearbook presents "The Coahoma Song"--a pulsating melody which rings in the heart of every true Coahoman. The sequences of tones in the same key produce a rhythmic whole in our school song, and the individuals and activities in harmonious arrangements form the College we love.

We are proud to be a part of an institution that, in the short span of one decade, has taken the leading part in the composition of Junior Colleges in Mississippi.

The joys, the sorrows, the successes, the failures, the fun, the hard work are all part of our memories of C.J.C. These memories we have tried to preserve through pictures. We pass on to you our Dear Coahoma--Guiding, Teaching, Serving.

DEDICATION

The 1961 staff proudly dedicates this Coahoman to Miss Ethel Vivian Dickerson, the first librarian of Coahoma Junior College and Agricultural High School. Her lofty ideals and fine qualities of womanhood are deeply implanted in our lives and in the lives of her former students as well. Her sincere interest in our needs, and her untiring efforts in facilitating our use of the library can never be forgotten.

We think that the following quotation adequately fits our librarian and friend.

"The best evidence of ability is an immense capacity for hard work and intense conviction of necessity."

ADMINISTRATION

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends:

Again, we publish the "Coahoman." Each year finds our annual staff better prepared to publish an annual that tells a more complete story of Coahoma Junior College And Agricultural High School and the increasing popularity of the junior college movement in America.

In 1949 twenty-one students from Coahoma County made up our college enrollment shared with 300 students in the high school. Today, 350 students from 30 counties make up our college enrollment with 450 high school students contributing to make a bigger and better "Coahoman."

A number of factors have combined to make the educational program at Coahoma Junior College effective. New facilities are being completed, additional programs planned by expertly trained teachers who are able to draw upon a broad background of general training and experience. Our growth here is in direct proportion to the steady growth of the junior college movement over the nation. Our greatest encouragement, however, comes from the fact that more students who are better prepared academically enter the college each year.

The junior college trend seems to be national in scope. Conclusively, greater appreciation for the junior college is evident. Therefore, in keeping with our clear-cut philosophy and goals, and in keeping with a future filled with fabulous opportunities - the future of America - our junior college has emerged with a program spotlighting the areas of new developments and experiences in the educational system that are most vital to the thought and future of our nation, providing stimulating authoritative advancements of today's basic educational challenges. It makes known to all that the junior colleges have a distinct function by virtue of their creation.

DEAN'S MESSAGE

Dear Friend,

Congratulations to the Editorial Staff for the successful publication of the 1961 Coahoman. This publication not only reflects through pictures and words the activities of the college, it depicts how students and teachers work in carrying out the philosophy and purposes of the Junior College, the peoples college.

You have been involved in an activity which has given you many worthwhile experiences. You have shown that you have the will and ability to succeed. You have had to constantly re-examine your efforts to see if you were producing the best of which you are capable. These evaluations have aided you in the development of leadership skills. This should help you keep pace with the demands that will be made on you during this period of uncertainty and crisis in world affairs.

Again, I extend my best wishes and sincere congratulations to the members of the 1961 editorial staff of the Coahoman.

Mary G. Whiteside, Dean

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

As we go forth daily, we are hoping to instill in the young men and women under our guidance a sense of responsibility, pride, along with the ability to become acceptable persons, equipped to cope with the many problems which confront them. Also, we strive to stimulate and keep forever burning the quest for knowledge and a zest for learning.

To all persons, and especially those responsible for this school-wide publication, we salute you! You have given generously of your time, efforts, energy, and thoughts. These are evidences that growth has taken place; and in the process of growing and becoming, man not only thinks, he loves; he dreams; he sacrifices himself; he builds; he runs risks; he worships and adores. All these things together, dear students, measure the dignity and special calling of a human being.

Special Tribute To Retiring Educator

Speakers from several cities in Mississippi and from one college in Louisiana will speak at a program honoring Lillian Rogers Johnson at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Coahoma Junior College Auditorium.

The program for the supervisor of Negro schools in Coahoma

County is being held in recognition of her 19 years of service in the past prior to her retirement Jan. 1.

The main address will be delivered by Dr. Kara V. Jackson of Grambling, La., National Jeanes Supervisor.

The Rust College Choir, the Coahoma Junior College and Agricultural High School Band, Higgins High School Band, and a vocal soloist, Timothy L. Gates of Clarksdale, will furnish music for the program.

Prof. W. A. Higgins, supervisor of the Clarksdale Negro Schools, will explain the purpose and significance of the occasion, and Amanda Elzy of Greenwood, Jeanes Supervisor in Leflore County, will introduce Dr. Jackson.

Other speakers will include F. O. Alexander of Jackson representing the Jeanes program in the Southeastern United States; E. S. Bishop, representing the Mississippi Teachers' Association; Paul M. Hunter, county superintendent of education in Coahoma County; J. W. Poindexter of Clarksdale, president of the Coahoma County Teachers Association; and Geraldine White, supervisor of Negro schools in the county and the honoree's successor. The last two named will make presentations. Zee Alfin Barron will introduce visitors.

A reception will follow at the cafeteria.

In 1933 she was invited by the Secretary of the Interior to attend a national conference on Negro education in Washington.

She was named president of the Mississippi Teachers Association in 1938 and immediately launched an "Every Teacher A Member Campaign". A teachers' na Junior College.

She was named "Zeta of the Year" in 1954 by the Alpha Delta Zeta Phi Beta Society.

For several years she has served on the legislative committee of the state association. Gold Medal for 20 years of service.

The 67-year-old schoolwoman has been a Jeanes supervisor in the Southern Education Foundation.

The educator has held many positions of leadership in the teaching field, being elected president of the American Teachers' Association, Teachers' Association of Sunflower County, Mississippi and Coahoma 4-H Club Councils; the Mississippi Young Women's Christian Association, the Coahoma County Teachers' Association and the Ora L. Mangham Library and Art Club.

She is president of the Ora L. Mangham Federated Club in Clarksdale.

Among the many other organizations in which she holds membership is the Rust College Board of Trustees, the Coahoma County Rust College Club and the Rust College Alumni Association.

After graduation from Rust, she carried on her studies on the graduate level with courses at Tuskegee Institute, Southern University, Atlanta University.

Mrs. Johnson has another daughter, Lestine Fletcher of Bridgeport, Conn., and a son, Daniel A. Rogers of Indianapolis. She has six grandchildren, including a granddaughter who is attending Hampton, Va., Institute and a grandson who is attending.

She has served as president of the Mississippi State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, Inc.

ING NEGRO SCHOOL SUPERVISOR in Coahoma County Lillian Rogers Johnson turned over her duties this week to Zine White (left), who became the fourth person to fill the office in the county. The first two were Thomas Young and Ernestine Powell, the latter being succeeded by Lillian Rogers Johnson in 1941.

Retiring Supervisor Has Directed Revolutionary Progress In Negro Schools

the progress in Negro education in Coahoma County in the 19 years can be measured statistics collected by Lillian Rogers Johnson comparing personnel and expenditures when became supervisor of Negro schools here in 1941 with that of record upon her retirement Jan. 1.

The advance has been drastic teacher training and salaries in school organization.

The number of teachers has increased from 149 to 202. The number of college graduates ening in the Negro schools increased from 16 to 159, and the number with masters' degrees increased from none to 26.

Meanwhile, the number of schools decreased from 77 to 14, and one-teacher schools declined from 40 to 2. The number of schools taught in the churches decreased from 42 to none.

The number of buses transporting Negro pupils to school increased from none to 53, and the number of children transported increased from none to 5,130.

The salaries of teachers increased from $35,678 to $52,573.

There were no lunchrooms for Negro school children in 1941. Now there are 11.

There were no expenditures for instructional materials, janitorial supplies and equipment for janitors, for classroom libraries, $2,000 for athletic and recreational supplies, $1,500 for office expenses, and $18,000 for heat, water and lights.

As one active in the founding of Coahoma Junior College in 1949, the retiring supervisor

proudly points to a budget of $390,000 and to the school's 446

graduates. Of these 292 have

Of these 292 have gone on to senior colleges, and 108 have obtained bachelor's degrees. One will graduate this year from medical school, and another has a master's degree.

She plans to celebrate her retirement first by attending the inauguration of President Elect John F. Kennedy later this month.

The inaugural in Washington will be only a short trip from Norfolk, Va., where she is going about the middle of the month to visit a daughter, Hermione Jackson. She expects to stay with her daughter until April 1, before returning to her home here at 519 Florida.

She said all three of her children had invited her to make her home with them, but that she prefers to stay in Clarksdale.

"Coahoma County has been good to me, and I'd like to stay in the city."
